

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

The writer was very excited because she had a chance to teach in a formal school. This is the second chance for her to teach in a formal situation after she did her teaching practice at SDN Gading I Surabaya. She had many experiences in teaching all of the students from Elementary and Senior High school. To be an English teacher is not simple a thing to do. The teacher must make some lesson plans first before teaching. It must be done in order to get the preparation during the learning process. Thus, it will make the students understand easily too.

Having some teaching experiences in the Citra Berkas School is the best thing to do. As the national plus school, Citra Berkas School implements different teaching methods. The writer has to apply the appropriate and interesting teaching method in order to get the student's attention. She had many experiences in handling the classroom, especially to create a good situation and being creative during the learning process. The writer also learnt how to face many kinds of student's characteristics. Not only that, the writer could learn how to manage the classroom as well as possible, to give the material, and to assess students. In the end of lesson, the writer did the reflection about the students in order to know more about the student's difficulties during the learning activity. Thus, the students could improve their ability to learn more.

Fortunately, most of the students in Citra Berkas School are active during the learning activity, so it helps the writer a lot. This made the writer got more excited in doing the internship. The most important thing is the writer had to build a good relationship with the students. On the other side, the writer and her partner did not only build a good relationship with the students, but also with the teachers in the teacher's room, especially English teachers. In the sharing time, the writer and her partner shared together with the English teacher about the lessons, class handling and teaching methods.

Finally, the writer realizes that to be a good teacher is not as easy as she thought. Being a good teacher needs a big motivation and creative thinking. English is a difficult language to be learned, especially for the Elementary school's students. Therefore, Citra Berkat School emphasizes the use of English during the English lesson. The students were allowed to speak in English. It would increase the student's ability more in learning English. The teachers also have to be facilitators for the students so that they could be more creative and innovative.
